They invite the public to stop in and see their new training facilities and meet the staff during their open house between 4 and 6 p.m. on Tuesday, June 6th.

"Although our business includes markets across the U.S. and abroad, it is worth noting the effects Wings has had on the local Lane County community." states owner, Kris King. "In the past two decades over thirty thousand people have attended our seminars in Eugene, spending an estimated $10.8 million in food and lodging. During a typical year, we host seminars on 46 of 52 weekends, with seminars averaging between thirty-five and sixty participants."

Wings participants come from a wide range of professions and organizations, health care, government and education fields. Many travel to attend the seminars and stay over to enjoy the local attractions.

"Our participants love the unique flavor of the Eugene community. The Saturday Market is always a big hit with our out of town attendees!" says Kris.

Wings has also had an impact on our State wide community shares Kris, "We have had the opportunity to work with some of our State's leading and most progressive companies."

For example, visp.net, an award winning company based in Grants Pass, OR and recognized as one of the "100 Fastest Growing Private Companies" in 2004 and 2005 by the Oregon Business Journal, sends all of its employees to Wings Seminars. The company's CEO, Todd Gannis says, "work satisfaction and synergy between our team members is better than I ever imagined possible and productivity has skyrocketed."

"We love hearing endorsements like Todd's!" exclaims Kris. "It is my goal to assist companies and organizations in achieving sustainable growth while providing a healthy and creative work environment for it's staff and business partners. When I achieve my goal, I know I am making a positive difference in the world and at the end of the day that's my bottom line."
